

INFORMATION ON OPEN SOURCE SOFTWARE AND LICENSES

Some Echelon products may contain open source software that must be licensed under the specific open source license terms applicable to that open source software. The open source license applicable to the open source software can be found with the open source software to which it applies. Where the open source license terms entitle the licensee to the source code of the open source software, such source code is available for download at <ftp://ftp.echelon.com/engineering/opensource>. Source code for the open source software will be made available for a period of three (3) years from the date of the last shipment of the Echelon product in which it was contained.

Source code may be obtained by (1) download free of charge from the ftp site listed above; or (2) ordering a CD from Echelon. If ordering a CD, please send a check or money order in the amount of ten United States dollars (USD $ 10.00), payable to Echelon Corporation and include "Open Source Code" and the name of the Echelon product in the memo line. Orders for CDs should be sent to the address below.
